

After 17-Day Recount, A Winner In Central Brooklyn Council Race

by {ga=ggstaff}

Monday, September 30, 2013 12:19 PM - Last Updated Wednesday, August 13, 2014 02:04 PM

There's a winner in the race to replace Brooklyn City Councilman Albert Vann: District leader Robert Cornegy Jr. eked out a win over Kirsten John Foy for the 36th district seat that includes the historic neighborhood of Bedford-Stuyvesant.

The result came in on Friday after a 17-day recount. Cornegy, who was endorsed by Vann and other Brooklyn politicians, won by a 68-vote margin.

In a statement, Cornegy said he was "deeply humbled and honored" by the win, The Daily News reported