

Today's Headlines: Sandy At 6 Months, Continued

Posted on Apr 30, Posted by Mike Muller Category The Eye-Opener

Superstorm Sandy's six month anniversary continues to make headlines . The storm is credited for creating a rise in construction jobs in the state. But not everybody is choosing to rebuild, many in the area are walking away from their damaged homes. But hundreds of millions in additional federal storm-recovery funds are expected from a new grant FEMA announced to the Long Island Power Authority. Meanwhile, Gov. Cuomo is ordering an investigation into the bonuses Con Edison awarded executives for their handling of the storm. In the storm's aftermath "we witnessed a complete failure by many of our state's utilities to provide adequate service to the rate payers they serve," he said.

Other Stories We're Following

Consultants Work To Elect Lawmakers Then Lobby Them (Daily News)

Housing Authority Sued Over Slow Pace of Repairs (NY Times)

Gun Deaths Drop Nearly A Third Since 2000 (Daily News)

In Its Defense, NYPD Cites Laziness Of Its Officers (NY Times)

Cuomo Signs Book Deal, Complicating Post Reporter's Biography (Associated Press)

Leading West Side Council Candidate Tied To Controversial Developer (Politicker)

Cuomo's Stance Helps Kill Bill To Legalize Payday Loans (Albany Times Union)

Shelters' Role In Homelessness Crisis (City Limits)

City Inspects Over 900 Construction Sites (Associated Press)

Tags: Tagged in: Superstorm Sandy