

Weekend Roundup: Mayoral Candidates Spend Night At Public Housing

Posted on Jul 22, Posted by Administrator Category The Eye-Opener

Five leading Democratic mayoral candidates spent Saturday night as guests of tenants of a Harlem public housing development.

The sleepover

was coordinated by the Rev. Al Sharpton's advocacy group.

The unusual event gave the candidates the opportunity to not only hear from potential voters directly,

but also to see for themselves the conditions of some of the apartments.

The next day, the sleep-deprived candidates

held a press conference to talk about the experience.

Other Stories We're Following

NY Comptroller Pushes For Gay Marriage Recognition (Associated Press)

Bloomberg Sues Over Contracts Held Up By Comptroller (NY Times)

Bloomberg Administration Officials Look For Exits (Crain's)

Water Tunnel Project Set To Be Finished (Crain's)

Stringer Trots Out His Toddler (New York Magazine)

Tags: Tagged in: headlines