

Today's Lead: Final Democratic Debate For Mayor

Posted on Sep 04, Posted by Mike Muller Category The Eye-Opener

The final debate for the Democratic candidates for mayor last night was used primarily as a means to attack Bill de Blasio, who has become the front runner in the polls. He was hit on issues like his support for a tax hike on the rich to pay for prekindergarten classes - which his opponents point out needs Albany's approval. De Blasio was attacked for supporting expansion of term limits when he was running for Speaker. His late support for a living wage bill was another source of contention, as was his acceptance of earmarks

. The candidates did, however, elaborate on their stances towards union contract negotiations a bit. De Blasio said the city couldn't afford to give the unions all the retroactive raises they want, while most of them said they wouldn't raise taxes to pay the workers. The NY Times published a useful fact checking piece for their claims throughout the debate here

Other Stories We're Following

Bloomberg Sues Council Over NYPD Profiling Law (Daily News)

What Can The Next Mayor Do About Affordable Housing? (Capital)

City's Unionized Workers Are Mostly Minorities, Study Shows (NY Times)

NYPD Sergeant Promoted Despite 16 Civil Rights Lawsuits (Daily News)

State Lawmakers Make Three Times State Taxpayers (Albany Times Union)

Lopez, Disgraced In Albany, But Vying For Council (NY Times)

Electric Zoo Hid Sick Drug Users, Cops Say (NY Post)

The Mysterious Forces At Work In The 2013 Election (Gotham Gazette)

Tags: Tagged in: 2013 Bill de Blasio labor unions mayoral race publi
c finance