

Today's Report: NOAA's Hurricane Sandy Service Assessment

Posted on May 16, Posted by David Howard King Category Today's Report

The National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration issued its final Hurricane Sandy service assessment yesterday. The report found that The National Weather Service offered valuable services during the storm but found room for improvement. The most prominent area that needed improvement according to NOAA was communicating the impact of storm surges to residents. (read the full report)

Recent Reports

Sewage Overflows Caused By Sandy , Gaps In Financial Services For Low Income Immigrant Households

, Benefits Of Extending Tuition Benefits To Undocumented Immigrants , Growin

g Gotham:A Survey of NYC's Minority and Women Owned Businesses

,
88 Percent Of Parks Score A Or B: Good News?

,
more recent reports

.

Tags: